(3) Police Efforts

○ Strengthening of Regional Cooperation

The police participated in a "Place of Regional Cooperation" and actively provided advice on an occurrence situation of incidents including calling out and stalking that appear to be a precursor of the criminal damage to children, and on specific information that can be used as a reference by related organizations when implementing crime prevention measures.

○ Thorough Joint Inspection of School-Communing Roads and Development/Maintenance/Improvement of the Environment

In cooperation with boards of education, schools, children and parents, residents involved in watching over children, local governments, local development bureaus, road administrators, and members of after-school children's clubs, the police conduct joint inspections of school routes from the viewpoint of crime prevention.

○ Sharing of Suspicious Person Information, etc. and Prompt Response

The police provide and disseminate high-quality information that is directly useful for children's watch-over activities, and effective information that contributes to specific responses such as crime prevention measures that parents can themselves take.

In addition, the police have established a system to quickly and reliably share information on suspicious persons by designating a contact person who helps schools share information from the police station.

○ Activation of Watching Over by Diversified Actors

The police are actively promoting various measures, such as providing a place for interaction with relevant parties by actively making public recognition of crime-prevention volunteers who are engaged in watch-over activities or patrolling by vehicles equipped with blue revolving lights, and encouraging them to "watching over children while doing other things."

○ Promotion of Measures to Avoid Risks to Children

The police, in cooperation with schools, are promoting practical crime prevention education based on actual damage situations, such as conducting initial response training in a dangerous case.
