By translating the Basic Plan on Measures against Child Sexual Exploitation into English and utilizing it for the reports submitted to international organizations and for various international meetings, efforts shall be made to gain better understanding from international society on detailed measures against child sexual exploitation taken in Japan and the government's commitment. (National Police Agency and Ministry of Foreign Affairs)

- “Basic Plan on Measures against Child Sexual Exploitation” was translated into English, uploaded to the National Police Agency’s website (in Japanese and English) and distributed to embassies in Tokyo. It was also promoted at “the 35th Meeting of the Interpol Specialists Group on Crimes Against Children” at Interpol headquarters in November 2017, “the 2nd Specialist Group Meeting on Child Sexual Exploitation”, held by the National Police Agency in December 2017, and others. (National Police Agency)
- The English version of the plan was disseminated to relevant governments and organizations, and the like via overseas diplomatic establishments. (Ministry of Foreign Affairs, National Police Agency)

(xvii) Strengthening of international collaboration and the promotion of information dissemination to international society through participation in international efforts

Through active participation in the activities of G7 Rome/Lyon Group and the ICPO, international collaboration shall be strengthened by facilitating information exchange with countries around the world, and thus the dissemination of information on our efforts shall be promoted. (National Police Agency, Ministry of Justice, and Ministry of Foreign Affairs)

- Through participation in “the 35th Meeting of the Interpol Specialists Group on Crimes Against Children” held at Interpol headquarters in November 2017, information was exchanged with foreign investigative authorities and international cooperation strengthened, along with dissemination of information regarding Japan’s efforts. (National Police Agency)
- Regarding the ICPO International Child Sexual Exploitation database terminal instituted in March 2011, information sharing was promoted via said terminal among participating countries by dispatching professionals to user instruction sessions held at ICPO headquarters in September, 2017. (National Police Agency)

(xviii) Participation in “WePROTECT Global Alliance to End Child Sexual Exploitation Online”

Through participation in “WePROTECT Global Alliance to End Child Sexual Exploitation Online,” which is a new framework for international collaboration under which governments and private businesses around the world cooperate to take measures against child sexual exploitation on the internet, international collaboration shall be strengthened by facilitating information exchange with countries around the world, and information dissemination shall be actively promoted concerning public-private joint efforts implemented in Japan so as to gain better understanding from international society. (National Police Agency, Cabinet Secretariat, Cabinet Office, Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications, Ministry of Justice, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology, Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare, and Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry)

Participated in the “Agenda 2030 for Children: End Violence Solutions Summit”, held in February 2018 in Sweden, and its workshops that the WePROTECT Global Alliance was in charge of, and strengthened international cooperation by furthering the sharing of information with other countries. (National Police Agency)
- In part because the “WePROTECT Global Alliance to End Child Sexual Exploitation Online” is led by the United Kingdom, in the Japan-UK Joint Declaration on Security Cooperation published on the occasion of the Japan-UK summit meeting on August 31, 2017, “Combating serious and organized crime, including modern slavery and online child sexual exploitation” was included as an area of cooperation. (Ministry of Foreign Affairs)

- On February 14, 2018, Mr. Manabu Horii, Parliamentary Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs, participated in the “Agenda 2030 for Children: End Violence Solutions Summit” held in Sweden as a representative of the Japanese government. He gave a speech during a workshop on protecting children from online violence and abuse organized by the “WePROTECT Global Alliance to End Child Sexual Exploitation Online” in the afternoon of the same day, showcasing public and private Japanese efforts and reaffirming Japan’s will to end the online sexual exploitation of children. (Ministry of Foreign Affairs)

(xix) Holding of seminars concerning measures against child sexual exploitation

Seminars shall be held to disseminate information on measures against child sexual exploitation taken in Japan under which the public and private sectors collaborate for the eradication of child sexual exploitation and the protection of child victims, in order to gain better understanding of Japan’s efforts from the general public and international society. (National Police Agency)

- On December 2017, about 150 representatives from relevant government agencies, foreign institutions, international institutions, private groups and others were invited to participate in the “2nd Specialist Group Meeting on Child Sexual Exploitation”. Information was exchanged regarding activities by private groups to eliminate child sexual exploitation and advanced efforts by foreign institutions and others. (National Police Agency)

(xx) Building of the platform for promoting international collaboration for the eradication of human trafficking cases

In order to promote the arrest of brokers of trafficking in persons in Japan and abroad and to prompt the protection of victims, Contact Point Meeting with related administrative bodies, foreign embassies in Tokyo, international organizations, NGO, etc., shall be held to share information and have talks aimed at facilitating the smooth handling of such crimes. (National Police Agency)

- At the 14th Contact Point Meeting held in July 2017, relevant government institutions, foreign embassies of 12 countries in Tokyo, international organizations, and 13 NGOs sent 183 participants, who conducted debate on smooth processing of cases and information sharing for the swift protection of victims and arrests of foreign and domestic brokers involved in human trafficking. (National Police Agency)

(xxi) Implementation of the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of the Child on the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography (hereinafter referred to as “the Protocol”) and release of the information on domestic actions

Japan will endeavor to ensure the implementation of the Protocol in line with the purport of the concluding observations which were issued by the Committee on the Rights of the Child (“CRC”) in response to Japan’s national report submitted in accordance with the provisions of the Protocol and, as necessary, taking into consideration the recommendations in the report of the Special Rapporteur on the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography. Japan will also proactively release the information on Japan’s actions through the above-mentioned national report to the CRC as well as other channels. (Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Cabinet Secretariat, Cabinet Office, National Police Agency, Ministry of Justice, Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology, and Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

- In June 2017, Japan submitted its 4th and 5th governmental reports regarding the Convention on the Rights of the Child. The report focuses on progress of the implementation of the Convention on the Rights of the Child and the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of Child on the sale of children, etc. in Japan between 2006 and 2016. (Ministry of Foreign Affairs)
- On February 14, 2018, Mr. Manabu Horii, Parliamentary Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs, participated in the “Agenda for Children 2030: End Violence Solutions Summit”, held in Sweden, as a representative of the Japanese government.
In his speech, he declared that Japan would become a pathfinding country in the Global Partnership to Stop Violence against Children (GPeVAC) (i.e. a country that is committed to efforts to end violence against children within its borders) and announced plans to create a multi-stakeholders’ platform for deepening conversation in this field with representatives of civil society. (Ministry of Foreign Affairs)
- Based on the directive “About Strengthening the Measures on the Child Sexual Exploitation” (April 25, 2017 National Police Agency Bulletin No. 10, etc.), prefectural police departments were instructed in meetings to thoroughly crack down on vicious child prostitution and child pornography cases, to implement reliable support for child victims, and to conduct public relations and public awareness-raising activities for preventing victimization. (National Police Agency)
- Information regarding Japanese efforts was actively disseminated to the international community, for example by uploading an English-language version of the “Basic Plan on Measures Against Child Sexual Exploitation” and Japan’s efforts in English to the website of the National Police agency. (National Police Agency)

2. Support for children and families to ensure the sound growth of children without victimization by sexual exploitation

(i) Promotion of “Spring Safety Net / New Term Action” under collaboration between the public and private sectors

In collaboration and cooperation with local governments, related business operators, schools, and community groups, etc., promotions and awareness-raising activities targeting children and their parents shall be conducted to encourage the use of filtering and rulemaking at home and to enhance the internet literacy, so that young people can use internet connection devices such as smartphones safely and securely, particularly intensively at the beginning of the new school year in spring (in Japan) when many children may carry smartphones, etc., for the first time. (Cabinet Office, Cabinet Secretariat, National Police Agency, Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications, Ministry of Justice, Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology, Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare, and Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry)

- As in previous years, the initiative “Spring Safety Net / New Term Action” was implemented in 2017 from February to May. Based on a case of murder and abandoning a corpse in Zama City, Kanagawa Prefecture, “Spring Safety Net / New Term Action” was begun early and extended, from December 2017 to May 2018, in order to strongly promote education activities with an emphasis on promoting the use of internet filters and raising internet literacy. (Cabinet Office)
- Based on the case in Zama City, a leaflet titled “Children Are Being Targeted!” featuring recent criminal incidents was created in December 2017. It was published on the National Police Agency’s website, and distributed to parents and legal guardians via prefectural police departments, to prevent criminal victimization of children through the use of internet. (National Police Department)
- Beginning in December 2017, the initiative “Spring Safety Net / New Term Action” was implemented in cooperation with relevant government agencies and private operators. The initiative was focused on various efforts to promote the use of internet filters and to raise internet literacy. As part of the initiative, business operators were asked to inform customers about internet filters and to rigorously apply them, while parents and legal guardians were also urged to rigorously supervise such filters.

In addition, in cooperation with relevant organizations, especially Regional Bureaus of Telecommunications, leaflets and the like were distributed in public or during school entrance ceremonies, while local media were informed regarding reporting on such matters. Furthermore, beginning in January 2018, an alliance of relevant government agencies has distributed 400,000 copies of education materials for parents and legal guardians to cellphone service providers as informational materials in shops and the like. (Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications)

- Efforts from the preceding year were commenced earlier as part of the “Spring Safety Net / New Term Action” initiative, which promotes more forceful efforts in educational activities and the like, focusing on promoting the use of internet filters and raising internet literacy. Notices were sent out on November 29 to faculty committees and others, asking to educate students in school on safe and secure use of smartphones etc. during the period of simultaneous emergency action from December to May. (Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology)
- Concerned business operators and organizations were asked for their cooperation in displaying posters and distributing leaflets in stores about the use of internet filters and information regarding the Revised Act on Development of Internet for Young People. (Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry)

(ii) Implementation of awareness-raising activities for safe and secure internet use by children

- In order to ensure safe and secure internet use by young people, an awareness-raising course called “e-Net Caravan” is provided to children as well as their parents/guardians and teachers, who are supposed to protect, educate, and guide children, in collaboration with telecommunication-related organizations, and, starting from September 2016, an advanced course for parents/guardians and teachers, called “e-Net Caravan plus,” is also being provided with a view toward raising awareness for the importance of filtering and ensuring that everyone knows how to use filtering services. (Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications, and Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology)

- Repeat mention 1 – (x): Implementation of “e-Net Caravan” (Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications, Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology)

- Awareness-raising activities using the booklet covering the issue of revenge pornography victimization and child pornography victimization through community sites and SNS shall be promoted. (Ministry of Justice)

- With the goal to stop human rights violations on the internet, an awareness-raising video and brochure were created for junior high and high school students and their parents or legal guardians, and these materials are delivered via the internet and using social networking sites. (Ministry of Justice)

- At the general meeting or national convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers Associations of Japan and the National Federation of High School Parent-Teacher Associations, materials for raising awareness regarding the importance of filtering services, etc., shall be distributed to disseminate knowledge about the appropriate use of the internet and how to avoid victimization by sexual exploitation due to use of the internet. (Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology)

- During the general meeting (approximately 200 participants) and national convention (approximately 17,000 participants) of the Japan PTA National Conference and the National High School PTA Federation, educational materials (“Wait a Second! Information for the Smartphone Generation”) for proper smartphone use and for stopping child sexual exploitation based on internet use were distributed and promoted. (Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology)

- In order to make parents/guardians aware of potential risks associated with the use of the internet by children and of measures to prevent the criminal victimization of children, a leaflet for the prevention of the criminal victimization of children through the use of internet, titled “STOP! Internet Crimes,” shall be produced, thereby promoting raising-awareness activities. (National Police Agency)

- In order to inform parents and legal guardians regarding the inherent dangers of children’s internet use and measures to prevent criminal victimization of children, in January 2018 the educational leaflet “STOP! Internet Crimes” on preventing criminal victimization of children related to internet use was created, published on the National Police Agency’s website, and distributed to parents/guardians via prefecture police departments. (National Police Agency)
- Repeat mention 1 - (ii): Production of leaflet for preventing criminal victimization related to the use of online dating sites and social networking sites. (National Police Agency)

- As part of efforts to facilitate the safe and secure use of the internet by young people, awareness-raising and educational materials for parents/guardians shall be produced and made publicly available in collaboration with related ministries and agencies, thereby promoting awareness-raising activities. (Cabinet Office)

Under the Act on Support for Self-reliance of Needy Persons (Act No. 105 of 2013), support for children from poor families and their parents/guardians shall be implemented through the “Consultation Service for Self-reliance,” which provides comprehensive support, and the “Learning-assistance Service for Children from Poor Households,” etc. (Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

- For the further expansion of the “Learning-assistance Service for Children from Poor Households,” support was broadened for efforts by executive municipalities to strengthen cooperation in building connections and regularly sharing information between welfare agencies and schools and academic offices like faculty committees which understand children’s circumstances, in fiscal 2017. (Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

3. Promotion of measures to prevent the occurrence and spread of victimization that focuses on tools used for child sexual exploitation

(i) Assistance in measures against such tools as taken by private organizations to protect children

In order to prevent children from being involved in crimes via the internet, the government shall (by participating in the discussion of measures by private organizations including the Content Evaluation and Monitoring Association (EMA) and Japan Internet Safety Promotion Association, and by providing advice) provide assistance in the promotion of continuous efforts by content operators to protect children, such as in the introduction of effective “Internet zoning” (which refers to a tool to control the transmission and receipt of short messages between adults and children or ID searches on websites using the age information owned by mobile carriers so as not to allow ill-intentioned adults to approach children; the same shall apply hereinafter) utilizing the age verification function of mobile phone users or their age information, or the strengthening of the system to monitor websites such as the checking of short-message content in message exchange services. (Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications, and National Police Agency)

- In July 20 the “Conference for Development of Internet Environment for Young People” was founded, which consists of 15 social networking site operators (18 operators are participating as of April 2018). It promotes autonomous child victimization prevention efforts such as information sharing between participating operators, research and public-awareness efforts. The National Police Agency also actively participates in the planning of the conference and provides information regarding child victimization cases and damage trends. Meetings are held generally once a month. (National Police Agency)
- Sharing of information useful for the moderation of mobile contents and the protection and sound raising of children with the Content Evaluation and Monitoring Association (EMA). (National Police Agency)
- Repeat mention 1 – (x): Implementation of “e-Net Caravan” (Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications)

(ii) Assistance in voluntary efforts by mobile carriers, third-party organizations, etc., to promote the use of filtering services

Under the ICT Service Safety and Security Study Group, the “Task Force on the Development of Secure and Safe Internet Use Environment for the Youth” has been set up and participated in by experts, mobile carriers, etc. and shall make recommendations concerning the publicity of filtering services for mobile phones and the improvement of the utilization rate in light of the issues to be tackled, thereby promoting voluntary efforts by mobile carriers and third-party organizations concerned with filtering approval. (Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications)

- Repeat mention 2 - (i): Implementation of “Spring Safety Net / New Term Action” (Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications)

(iii) Assistance for the operation of the Guidelines on Measures for Illegal Information on the Internet and Model Contract Articles on Measures for Illegal/Harmful Information

By participating in the liaison conference on measures for illegal information held by trade associations (Telecommunications Carriers Association, Telecom Services Association, Japan Internet Providers Association, and Japan Cable and Telecommunications Association) as an observer and otherwise, the government will provide assistance in the proper operation of the Guidelines on Measures for Illegal Information on the Internet, including the criteria for child pornography that should be deleted and the criteria for the violation of the Act on Regulation on Soliciting Children by Using Opposite Sex Introducing Service on Internet (Act No. 83 of 2003; hereinafter referred to as the “Online Dating Sites Regulation Act”), and the Model Contract Articles on Measures for Illegal/Harmful Information,” including the provisions regarding the blocking of child pornography and the provisions prohibiting child prostitution, which have been established by said trade associations. (Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications)

- Participated in the liaison conference on measures for illegal information and gave support in the proper application of the Guidelines on Measures for Illegal Information on the Internet and the Model Contract Articles on Measures for Illegal/Harmful Information. (Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications)

(iv) Assistance in consultation services concerning illegal/harmful information on the internet

In order to strengthen measures taken by internet service providers (hereinafter referred to as “ISPs”) for illegal/harmful information on the internet based on relevant guidelines, the government will provide assistance for the operation of the Consultation Center for Illegal/Harmful Information, which conducts consultation for general internet users concerning illegal/harmful information on the internet, consultation for school officials concerning cyberbullying, etc., and consultation for ISPs, etc., concerning requests for deletion from general internet users, organizations dealing with human rights violations, the Internet Hotline Center, and police, etc. (Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications)

- Based on various guidelines, a consultation center for illegal and harmful information has been established, which counsels private individuals and providers on how to respond to particular cases involving illegal or harmful information on the internet. This is in order to strengthen the fight by providers and others against illegal and harmful information on the internet. (Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications)

(v) Promotion of various measures toward improvement in the effectiveness of blocking

Images of child sexual exploitation on the internet significantly infringes on the rights of children. In an effort to protect the rights of children, ISPs and other business operators have been implementing blocking on a voluntary basis since April 2011. For the purpose of encouraging the voluntary introduction of effective blocking by ISPs and other business operators, while paying attention not to cause any unreasonable effects on the secrecy of communications and the freedom of expression of internet users, continuous efforts shall be made so as to have ISPs and other related parties understand the significance and effectiveness of blocking in preventing the distribution of child pornography on the internet.

Furthermore, assistance shall be provided so that, after any images of child pornography are detected, irrespective of the nationality of the servers, information will be provided from the National Police Agency and the Internet Hotline Center to the body to prepare and manage the address lists of websites containing child pornography, and so that the preparation of an address list of websites containing child pornography and the provision of relevant address lists to ISPs and other related parties by the body to prepare and manage the address lists of websites containing child pornography will be implemented rapidly and effectively. In addition, assistance shall be continuously provided so that ISPs can implement blocking in a stable manner. (Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications, National Police Agency, and Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry)

- It is important to ensure that the application of blocking child pornography websites does not unduly interfere with internet users' privacy in their communications and their freedom of expression, and the plan supports the autonomous introduction and application of blocks by providers. (Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications)
- Support was given to private autonomous efforts by sharing necessary information and advice with private associations like the Conference for Promoting Building a Safe Internet, the Expert Committee for Measures to Stop the Spread of Child Pornography, and the Internet Content Safety Association. (Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications)
- The Internet Content Safety Association, which compiles a list of addresses to which child pornography is uploaded, was established in March 2011. Beginning in April of that year, some ISPs began blocking such sites autonomously. As of January 1, 2018, the child pornography address list has been shared with 73 ISPs, 4 telecom groups, 3 search engine operators, and 2 filter operators. The plan supports this effort so that measures to stop the spread of child pornography can be taken. (Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications)

- The Internet Hotline Center, the IHC, which is commissioned to a private organization by the NPA, reports illegal contents such as child pornography images internet users notified the IHC of to the police or INHOPE. The police and INHOPE respectively received 377 and 531 reports of child pornography images in the first half of 2017. (National Police Agency)

(vi) Measures for the business operators of online dating sites and community sites

The National Police Agency shall provide information about the actual state of child sexual exploitation to major online dating site business operators and shall request them to take measures to prevent the sexual victimization of children. For the elimination of prostitution organizations, in particular, the exchange of information with online dating site business operators and a study of measures will be implemented.

Information about the actual state of child sexual exploitation will also be provided individually to major community site business operators and, according to the size of the business and the type of services provided, efforts shall be made to have them strengthen voluntary measures to prevent the sexual victimization of children, such as the cleanup of the community site environment or the introduction of stricter age verification systems, with a view toward introducing effective Internet zoning. (National Police Agency)

- Information regarding the reality of child victimization is being shared with major online dating site business operators, and especially for so-called “en-deri,” which is a form of organized, mediated prostitution in the guise of individual “enjo kosai” (patronage dating), major online dating site business operators are requested to strengthen measures to eliminate them. In addition, via the Japan Interactive Advertising Association, efforts were implemented to make thoroughly clear the prohibition of child use of these sites in internet advertisements. (National Police Agency)
- In addition to supporting the activities of the “Conference for Maintaining an Internet Use Environment for Young People”, which consists of major social networking site business operators, information regarding the reality of child victimization was individually shared with operators not participating in the conference, and efforts were implemented to strengthen autonomous measures to prevent damages corresponding to the scale of operators and the form of their services. (National Police Agency)

(vii) Promotion of measures to prevent the distribution of and access to images of child pornography

Efforts shall be made to detect illegal information related to child pornography through cyber patrols and reports to the Internet Hotline Center or the anonymous reporting program and, if such information is detected, a request for deletion shall be issued to the site administrator by the police or the Internet Hotline Center. (National Police Agency)

- The police collected illegal contents, such as child pornography uploaded on the internet, through cyber patrol and reports by the Internet Hotline Center or the anonymous reporting program. The police or the Internet Hotline Center requested the site administrators to delete the illegal contents. There were 131 deletion requests by the Internet Hotline Center during the first half of 2017. (National Police Agency)

(viii) Operation of the Internet Hotline Center

The operation of the Internet Hotline Center shall continue via outsourcing to the private sector. The role of the Internet Hotline Center includes receiving reports on illegal information including information on the public display of child pornography prohibited under the Act Against Child Prostitution and Child Pornography or information on soliciting prohibited under the Online Dating Sites Regulation Act, reporting to the police, and issuing a request to the site administrator for deletion. The Internet Hotline Center shall report to the police about child pornography, provide information to the Internet Content Safety Association, which prepares and manages address lists of websites containing child pornography in order to contribute to the blocking of images of child pornography, and provide reports on the images of child pornography stored on overseas web servers to INHOPE, which is a collaborative network of counterpart organizations around the world. (National Police Agency)

- Repeat mention 3 - (v): Reporting illegal contents such as child pornography images to relevant organizations (National Police Agency)

(ix) Elimination of criminal organizations and illegal adult entertainment establishments in entertainment/amusement areas by nurturing an atmosphere encouraging crime prevention volunteer activities

The elimination of criminal organizations and illegal adult entertainment establishments in entertainment/amusement areas and destruction of “criminal infrastructure” shall be facilitated through the enhancement of the activities of crime prevention volunteer groups including residents’ associations and firefighting services under collaboration with local shopping districts and municipal governments. (National Police Agency)

- Crime prevention patrols were promoted by volunteer groups through prefectural police departments and the efforts listed below were promoted in cooperation with shopping districts and municipal governments.

Comprehension of the reality of criminal organization, illegal adult entertainment establishments and criminal infrastructure in entertainment/amusement areas was progressed. The dismantling of crime infrastructure and dissolution of criminal organizations and illegal adult entertainment establishments in consideration of continued results of crackdowns was promoted. Information was distributed to shopping districts and municipalities regarding the importance of resolving the situation that empty buildings and stores are repeatedly used by illegal adult entertainment establishments as criminal infrastructure and securing the shopping districts and municipalities’ understanding.

Instruction was given to real-estate brokers, owners of buildings and apartments, management companies, and shopping districts on how to exclude criminal organizations and illegal adult entertainment establishments from real-estate contracts. This is to promote the prevention of the establishment of organized crime offices and illegal adult entertainment establishments in empty buildings and stores by crackdowns in entertainment/amusement areas, apartment buildings in their vicinity and the like, as well as the eviction of such organizations after move-in. (National Police Agency)

4. Prompt protection of child victims and the promotion of appropriate support

(i) Creation of a comfortable environment for children and their parents/guardians for consultations

- At the Juvenile Support Center established in the prefectural police department and at the juvenile section of police stations, police officers and juvenile guidance officials shall meet and talk with children or their parents/guardians and provide necessary advice and guidance according to the contents of the consultation. Also, telephone consultations shall be provided under the name of the “Young Telephone Corner” or as another name in an effort to detect child victims at an early date. As a means of consultation, the introduction of a toll-free telephone number and consultation services at night or on holidays via e-mail, etc., shall be promoted. In addition, it should be actively announced that anonymous consultation is available. (National Police Agency)

- Prefectural police departments received 69,932 inquiries from children or their parents or legal guardians in 2017 and provided necessary advice and guidance in person or by phone. In addition, the National Police Agency is using media, like its website and leaflets, to announce of email consultations and of the “Young Telephone Corner,” a telephone consultation service by prefectural police departments. (National Police Agency)

- In addition to the counseling services concerning human rights issues including sexual exploitation, as provided by Legal Affairs Bureaus and District Legal Affairs Bureaus throughout Japan, the Ministry of Justice is taking various measures including the operation of a toll-free telephone counseling services called “Children’s Rights Hotline” and human rights counseling services on the internet called “SOS e-mail,” along with the distribution of “Children’s Rights SOS Mini-Letters” (pre-stamped and addressed sealable postcards, for human rights counseling) to elementary and junior high school students. Information on these counseling services shall be further disseminated through posting on the website of the Ministry of Justice as well as distributing awareness-raising booklets and leaflets containing such information to the general public. (Ministry of Justice)

- Legal Affairs Bureaus and District Legal Affairs Bureaus provide human rights counseling in all matters of human rights issues, including sexual exploitation of children. In addition, the Ministry of Justice operates the toll-free telephone consultation service “Children’s Rights Hotline” and the internet human-rights consultation service “SOS e-mail”. Efforts have also been made to distribute the “Children’s Rights SOS Mini-Letters” (postcard and envelope for human rights counseling) to elementary and junior high school students throughout the country. (Ministry of Justice)

- The week from June 26, 2017 to July 2 was designated as “Nationwide ‘Children’s Rights Hotline Promotion Week,” and during this time opportunities for counseling were expanded by extending consultation hours on weekdays and adding consultations on Saturdays and Sundays. Furthermore, the Ministry of Justice has advertised these consultation services on its website and also promotes their existence by distributing general brochures and leaflets listing them. (Ministry of Justice)

(ii) Responses considering convenience for the person undergoing a consultation

When a consultation is requested by a victim of child sexual exploitation via various consultation services including general telephone consultation services such as #9110 (police consultation telephone number) and #189 (nationwide hotline connected to Child Guidance Centers), appropriate advice and information shall be provided and, if it is appropriate that the matter be handled at another administrative body or another organization, smooth handover shall be ensured with consideration given to privacy protection. (National Police Agency, Ministry of Justice, and Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

- Responses considering convenience for the person undergoing a consultation were made by providing appropriate advice and information, or by handing over inquiries to other appropriate administrative agencies when necessary, while responding to consultations regarding child sexual exploitation at juvenile consultation. (National Police Agency)

(iii) Appropriate handling of children’s rights issues

When a suspected human rights violation is recognized through a human rights counseling etc., such a case shall be investigated as a human rights violation case, and appropriate measures shall be taken depending on a case, including the protection of the child victim, in collaboration with the police, Child Guidance Centers, and other related organizations. (Ministry of Justice)

- In cases of possible human rights violations recognized during consultations, investigations were undertaken and appropriate measures were implemented depending on the case, such as cooperation between police, Child Guidance Centers and relevant agencies to protect the abused child (or children). (Ministry of Justice)

(iv) Dissemination of the anonymous reporting program for the creation of a secure society

The anonymous reporting program under which anonymous reports of human trafficking crimes or suspected human trafficking crimes, crimes related to people’s welfare, child abuse, etc., are received and information fees are paid according to the degree of contribution to the arrest or the protection of the victim shall be publicized as part of efforts for the early detection of these crimes, which tend to be hidden. (National Police Agency)

- Prefectural police departments promoted public awareness through various activities, such as crime-prevention events and measures against entertainment/amusement areas, and internet-based public awareness was promoted by putting up link banners, on not only the websites of the National Police Agency and prefectural police headquarters, but also the websites of individual police stations and relevant administrative agencies. (National Police Agency)

(v) Promotion of guidance for children involved in businesses focused on children as sexual objects

If a child is engaged in a businesses focused on children as sexual objects, the morality of the child will be adversely affected and their moral character may decline. Moreover, engaging in such business could lead to sexual victimization via rape, indecent assault, child prostitution, or other sexual offenses.

Therefore, i) an act of handing out flyers for a business serving customers using children as feature of the services or a business of entertaining customers by playing to sexual gratification, or an act of orally soliciting customers for such a business, ii) an act of hanging out a place where such business is operated, iii) an act of working for such a business (excluding those described in i)), and iv) an act of inducing other children to work for such a business are designated as subject to correction guidance. The police shall take those children that have been involved any of the above into custody and shall contact their parents/guardians and school officials to urge them to admonish or punish the children in question. (National Police Agency)

- Some prefectural police departments designated an act of working for ‘JK businesses’ as subject to correction guidance, and provided guidance and protection for 46 children between April and December 2017. (National Police Agency)

(vi) Promotion of cyber guidance

In order to protect children from crimes involving personal welfare caused by the use of the internet and to promote the sound development of children, the police shall promote cyber guidance in which, if an inappropriate message on the internet by a child such as an offer of “patronage dating” is detected during a cyber patrol, the police shall contact the child that wrote such message and directly provide warning and guidance. (National Police Agency)

- Prefectural police expanded cyber guidance efforts and provided guidance to 899 children in 2017, to protect children from crimes involving personal welfare caused by the use of the internet and to promote their sound development. (National Police Agency)

(vii) Support, etc., for children at Child Guidance Centers and local governments

When a Child Guidance Center receives a consultation concerning a child that has been harmed mentally and physically due to sexual abuse or child pornography crime, support shall be provided such as temporary custody when his/her safety needs to be secured, assistance concerning a visit to a medical institution to receive specialized medical care, counseling by child psychologists, and admission to a child welfare facility for the child for whom it is difficult to return home, and the case shall be reported to the police after confirming the damage caused by the situation. Also, municipal governments shall fully collaborate and share information with Child Guidance Centers and other related organizations through the Regional Council for Children in Need of Protection to provide consultation for child victims of sexual abuse or child pornography crimes in a more familiar environment and to provide necessary support.

In addition, information about the nationwide hotline number to Child Guidance Centers (189), including the fact that anonymous reporting is acceptable, shall be widely disseminated so that anyone that has spotted a child that seems to be abused can call the Child Guidance Center without hesitation. (Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

- Educational materials for raising public awareness, such as posters and the like listing the nationwide Child Guidance Center Hotline (189), were created during “Child Abuse Prevention Month” (116,000 B2-format posters, 289,000 A3-format posters, 1.93 million leaflets, and 32,200 flyers). These were distributed to municipalities, relevant government agencies and relevant organizations. The materials make clearly outline ways to anonymously report child abuse. In addition, to make the nationwide Child Guidance Center hotline (189) more convenient for callers, a call-center model, in which operators (rather than automated voice guidance) respond to calls from cellphones, was introduced on February 1, 2018. (Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

(viii) Improvement of convenience for victims of sexual crimes in obtaining information

In addition to the current measures, including the establishment of the “Sexual Crime Emergency Call” telephone consultation service and consultation offices, public announcements regarding these consultation service, and the distribution of “Guidance for Victims of Crime” to victims of sexual crimes, the police shall make efforts to improve convenience for victims of sexual crimes in obtaining information based on requests from the victims of sexual crimes. As for victims that do not want to take legal action, further efforts shall be made to help them receive early support from crime victim support groups more easily by, with the consent of the victim, providing the contact information of the victim and the content of the consultation to a group that provides early-stage assistance to victims of crime. (National Police Agency)

- The nationwide speed dial (#8103 (Heart-san)), which connects to sexual crime victim hotlines of prefectural police departments in order to make it easier for sexual crime victims to seek help from the police, began operating in August 2017. In addition, efforts were made to help sexual crime victims that do not want to take legal action to receive early support from crime victim support groups more easily by, with the consent of the victim, providing the contact information of the victim and the content of the consultation to a group that provides early-stage assistance to crime victims, after carefully explaining to the victim the content of supports that the group can provide and that the victim's secret is protected. (National Police Agency)

Based on the Fourth Basic Plan for Gender Equality (approved by the Cabinet on December 25, 2015), a support system, including establishing the one-stop support center for victims of sexual crimes and sexual violence and other supports for the victim shall be enhanced. (Cabinet Office, National Police Agency, and Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

- Between January and February 2018, implementation of 4 training sessions for counselors at support organizations helping sexual crime victims (e.g. the gender equality planning center or the one-stop support center for victims of sexual crimes and sexual violence) and employees of local governments for establishing infrastructure that enables sexual crime victims and others to safely receive necessary counseling and support. (Cabinet Office)
- In order to promote efforts to provide support for victims of sexual crimes or sexual violence who have utilized a prefectural one-stop support center, in fiscal 2017 the "Support Grant for Victims of Sexual Crimes and Sexual Violence" was created. During fiscal 2017, 6 prefectures opened one-stop support centers for victims of sexual crimes and sexual violence and 42 prefectures now have a total of 42 such centers. (Cabinet Office)

(x) Promotion of the protection of trafficking victims

Considering the fact that many trafficking victims are women and children and based on the Japan's 2014 Action Plan to Combat Trafficking in Persons (approved at Ministerial Meeting Concerning Measures Against Crime on December 16, 2014), the accurate identification of victims and proper protection shall be promoted in collaboration with related organizations. (National Police Agency, Cabinet Secretariat, Ministry of Justice, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

- Promotion of accurate identification of victims and proper protection in conjunction with relevant institutions and NGOs. Police consultation hotlines and anonymous reporting hotlines are responding to consultation and reports in ways that won't overlook human trafficking crimes. (National Police Agency)

(xi) Implementation of continuous support for child victims

Juvenile guidance officials and specialized juvenile consultation officials shall provide continuous support through systematic counseling according to the character of each child victim and the coordination of the environment in collaboration with family, schools, and Child Guidance Centers. (National Police Agency, Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology, and Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

- Prefectural police departments implemented continuous support for child victims, by providing child victims with the counseling of juvenile guidance officials etc., who have knowledge regarding the character and the psychology of children and counseling skills, while receiving advice from experts in psychology and the like, or by coordinating family environments in conjunction with relevant institutions. (National Police Agency)
- In fiscal 2017 efforts were made to improve counseling system at schools by appropriately placing school counselors to help children with their mental health care and school social workers to provide support by improving the various circumstances children find themselves in. This is so that the concerns voiced by children, including victims of child sexual exploitation, can be properly responded to. (Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology)

(xii) Protection and support for women in need of protection under the women's protection project

For women facing various difficulties, consultation by officials of the Women's Consulting Office or women's consultants shall be provided along with other support in collaboration with related organizations such as the provision of information and services to accompany the victim. In addition, temporary protection, medium- to long-term support for children accompanying the women staying at women's protection facilities such as allowances for entering school, aftercare, and a model project to assist a life of self-reliance for victims of domestic violence shall be implemented.

With respect to the women's protection project, after grasping the current situation, the improvement of the project based on the actual state shall be considered. (Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare, Cabinet Office, National Police Agency, and Ministry of Justice)

- Items (i) and (ii) below were newly implemented in 2017, while the previously implemented item (iii) was continued.
 - (i) Expansion of vocational support for women in protective facilities by making provision of travel expenses needed by said women possible, and by accompanying them in job-seeking activities.
 - (ii) In order to advance the evaluation for revision of projects providing protection for women, such as women's counseling centers, research to gather facts regarding the content of support was undertaken.
 - (iii) Model projects were implemented to provide support for female victims of abuse who had sought help at domestic violence shelters in independent living and establishing a new life after leaving the shelter. (Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

(xiii) Provision of support at child welfare facilities

Foster homes, infant homes, child psychotherapeutic institutions, children's self-reliance support facilities, maternal and child support facilities, and Child and Family Support Centers shall, in collaboration with related organizations including Child Guidance Centers and municipal governments, provide consultation and assistance to children that have been harmed mentally and physically due to sexual abuse or victimization by a child pornography crime, and officials in charge shall be deployed to provide psychotherapy. With the enactment of the Act on Partial Amendment of the Child Welfare Act (Act No.63 of 2016; hereinafter referred to as the "Amended Child Welfare Act of 2016") in May 2016, provisions concerning the following matters have been incorporated for the purpose of providing flexible self-reliance support tailored to the situation of each child and for implementing continuous support at a place familiar to the child.

- Assignment to prefectural governments (Child Guidance Centers) of the provision of consistent support for foster parents, from the recruitment of foster parents to self-reliance support for children
- Continuation of support for persons 18 years of age or over including admission into support facilities and entrustment to foster parents
- Creation of an obligation of municipal governments to make sincere efforts to establish a support base to provide integrated support including grasping the actual situation of children and the provision of information

The steady enforcement of these provisions shall be ensured. (Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

- Items (i) and (ii), which were implemented before and are still in practice, while items (iii) and (iv) were newly implemented in fiscal 2017.

(i) Project to manage support centers for children and families

Counseling and support in conjunction with Child Guidance Centers, municipalities, and relevant institutions in foster homes, infant homes, child psychotherapeutic institutions, children's self-reliance support facilities, maternal and child support facilities, and Child and Family Support Centers for children who have suffered physically or mentally due to abuse, including sexual abuse or child pornography. (Number of Child and Family Support Centers: 122, as of October 2017)

(ii) Assignment of designated psychotherapy professionals

Designated psychotherapists were assigned and provide psychotherapy for children who have suffered psychological harm from abuse.

(iii) Support project for foster parents

Promotion of the foster parent system through finding new foster parents, matching foster parents and children, determining support strategies for the self-reliance of foster children, and counseling and support after taking in a foster child and regarding adoption. (Results in 2017: implementation in all prefectures, designated cities, and cities with Child Guidance Centers)

(iv) Support project for social nursing and self-reliance

Project to allow individuals who were previously entrusted to foster parents or foster homes, but were released from care when they reached age 18 (in the case of an extension: age 20), to continue to receive necessary support until age 22, as a rule. (Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

(xiv) Support provided by the Japan Legal Support Center

Regardless of the length of time that has elapsed from the damage, to inquiries from the victims of crime by telephone or at its office, the Japan Legal Support Center (hereinafter referred to as the "JLSC") provides information on the legal systems and consultation centers, and referral to lawyers who are well versed in supporting the victims of crime, by its staff dedicated to supporting victims of crime. Also, as aid services entrusted by the Japan Federation of Bar Associations, for victims who are not financially capable, the JLSC provides assistance in paying for attorneys' fees for legal services such as claims for damage against the offenders. In addition, the JLSC provides victims of child abuse with legal consultation necessary for the prevention of victimization, regardless of their financial capacities. (Ministry of Justice)

- To inquiries from the victims of crime by telephone or at its office, the Japan Legal Support Center (the “JLSC”) has provided information on legal systems and consultation centers, and referral to lawyers who are well-versed in supporting victims of crime, by its staff dedicated to supporting victims of crime.

Also, as aid services entrusted by the Japan Federal of Bar Associations, for victims who are not financially capable, the JLSC has provided assistance in paying for attorneys' fees for legal services such as assistance in reporting the incidents to the police, submission of criminal complaints and negotiations for settlements in criminal proceedings, etc.

In addition, under the Partial Revision of the Comprehensive Legal Support Act, the JLSC has started providing victims of child abuse with legal consultation necessary for the prevention of victimization, regardless of their financial capacities. (Ministry of Justice)

(xv) Verification of measures relating to the protection of children who have suffered physical or mental damage

Regular verification and assessment of the implementation status of measures relating to the protection of children who have suffered physical or mental damage as a result of having been a party to child prostitution or having been depicted in child pornography shall be conducted so as to promote child protection measures. (National Police Agency and Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

- Based on the provisions of Article 16-2 of the Act on Regulation and Punishment of Acts Relating to Child Prostitution and Child Pornography, and the Protection of Children, the Council for the Promotion of Policies for Crime Victims, held on March 30, 2016, verified and assessed the implementation status of measures relating to the protection of children who have suffered physical or mental damage as a result of having been a party to child prostitution or having been depicted in child pornography that was carried out from July 15, 2014(the date of enforcement of the Act for Partial Revision of the Act) until the end of fiscal 2015 by government agencies. (National Police Agency)
- Based on the second clause of Article 16 of the Act Against Child Prostitution and Child Pornography, the “special committee on evaluating protective measures for child victims of child prostitution and child pornography” was instituted in June 2017 as part of the Social Security Council’s Children Section meeting. Measures to be evaluated based on the Social Security Council’s specialist knowledge include measures based on the Child Welfare Act, which constitute the primary protective measures for abused children. In order to solve issues common to multiple measures, it was also decided to conduct “research for a complete picture of the abuse of children placed in self-reliant support facilities and regarding support strategies.” (Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

(xvi) Implementation of research study on child victims

A research study on the psychological characteristics of children that have become victims of “self-generated” crime shall be conducted, and the result shall be utilized in measures to prevent victimization. (National Police Agency)

- In order to utilize in strategies designed to suppress the “self-generated” crimes, a “survey on awareness of self-generated” crimes” was undertaken, with one group of children who had suffered from self-generated” crimes and one group of children who had not. (National Police Agency)

(xvii) Implementation of surveys on the actual situations of violent victimization, etc.

Conducting a survey to grasp the actual situation of victims including the victims of sexual crimes. (Cabinet Office)

- In order to respond appropriately to changing abuse trends, which is linked to changing environments surrounding men and women, a survey regarding the reality of violent abuse between men and women, including violence by a spouse, is carried out once every 3 years. In fiscal 2017, based on changes to the criminal code, the “fiscal 2017 survey on violence between men and women” was carried out after adjusting various survey items and target demographics, such as asking not only women, but respondents independent of their sex, whether they have been victims of forced intercourse. (Cabinet Office)

(xviii) Consideration of a model of counseling and support system

Considering a sort of model of counseling and support for the victims of sexual exploitation among young people though grasping the current situation of counseling and support for them. (Cabinet Office)

- For the expansion of support for victims of sexual violence among young people, comprehension of the reality of abuse and the state of support for victims was achieved by collecting information on cases of abuse, followed by deliberations on effective forms of counseling and support based on the victims' needs. (Cabinet Office)

5. Strengthening of crackdowns in line with the situation of victimization and rehabilitation of offenders

(i) Assistance in the establishment of ordinances prohibiting businesses focused on children as sexual objects

In light of the current situation where businesses focused on children as sexual objects are concentrated in regions where metropolitan areas are located, local governments that are planning to enact an ordinance prohibiting such businesses in line with the local situation shall be provided with appropriate advice from the related organizations that have specialized knowledge, including the effectiveness of related ordinances. (National Police Agency, Cabinet Office, and Ministry of Justice)

- The National Police Agency appropriately provided necessary advice and information regarding the content and effectiveness of previously enacted or amended ordinances to local governments that are planning to amend ordinances regulating the activities of ‘JK businesses’. In addition, the National Police Agency informed and instructed at meetings involving representatives of prefectural police etc., to advance such efforts in mainly local governments encompassing large cities. As of March 2018, 5 prefectures (Tokyo, Kanagawa, Aichi, Osaka, Hyogo) have enacted or amended ordinances regulating ‘JK businesses’ (National Police Agency)
- The Cabinet Office on its website for measures against environments harmful to young people provides information for municipalities that have established or applied ordinances regulating the activities of ‘JK businesses’, which commercialize children’s sexuality, in order to bolster the efforts of relevant agencies to fight youth delinquency and abuse and to raise public awareness regarding the elimination of harmful environments for young people. (Cabinet Office)

(ii) Surveys contributing to consideration of the regulations regarding child pornography

Surveys on actual child pornography crimes in Japan shall continue to be carried out in order to contribute to the consideration of regulations regarding child pornography. While surveys have been carried out through diplomatic missions abroad concerning legislation on child pornography in G7 countries and other foreign countries, such surveys shall be continued with regard to trends concerning legislation, and the survey results will be compiled regularly. (Ministry of Foreign Affairs, National Police Agency, and Ministry of Justice)

- Information was collected regarding trends towards regulation or establishment of standards on the sexual exploitation of children in foreign countries or multinational contexts such as the UN. (Ministry of Foreign Affairs)

- In March 2018, a summary was compiled regarding the current state of child sexual exploitation in 2017. (National Police Agency)

(iii) Strengthening of crackdowns on and strict punishment for crimes involving child sexual exploitation

- Crackdown on crimes of child sexual exploitation as offenses against the Act Against Child Prostitution and Child Pornography, Child Welfare Act, juvenile protection ordinances, etc., shall be strengthened. Regarding child pornography crimes, in particular, the National Police Agency shall encourage joint investigation among multiple prefectural police headquarters so as to strictly apprehend heinous child pornography offenders such as groups of younger child pornography lovers, child pornography sales groups, and groups involving the use of file-sharing software. The agency shall, by gathering and analyzing information on child pornography offenders, identify and protect child victims, and arrest suspected producers to eliminate the source of supply of child pornography. In addition, as for “offences involving the possession of child pornography for the purpose of satisfying one’s own sexual curiosity” with respect to which penal provisions became effective in July 2015, the agency shall continue to ensure appropriate application. Also, based on the Japan’s 2014 Action Plan to Combat Trafficking in Persons strict control for the eradication of trafficking in persons shall be promoted under collaboration among related organizations. (National Police Agency, Ministry of Justice, Cabinet Secretariat, Cabinet Office, and Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

- Crackdowns were advanced on crimes of child sexual exploitation, such as violations of the Act Against Child Prostitution and Child Pornography, Child Welfare Act, and juvenile protection ordinances. In 2017, 1,703 persons were arrested () in 2,413 child pornography cases, and it was the highest number on record. In total 2,057 persons were arrested () in 2,580 cases of child prostitution etc. (child prostitution, causing a child to commit an obscene act (Child Welfare Act), lewd sexual acts etc. (juvenile protection ordinances)).

In addition, efforts were made to apprehend heinous child pornography offenders, such as groups of younger children pornography lovers, child pornography sales groups, and groups involving the use of file-sharing software, by encouraging joint investigation among multiple prefectural police etc. (National Police Agency)

- Efforts shall be made to realize strict punishment for crimes of child sexual exploitation through the aggressive application of the Act Against Child Prostitution and Child Pornography and other relevant laws. (Ministry of Justice)

- In cases of child sexual exploitation, prosecutors have made efforts to realize strict punishment through the aggressive application of the Act Against Child Prostitution and Child Pornography and other relevant laws, including “offences involving the possession of child pornography for the purpose of satisfying one’s own sexual curiosity,” which became effective in July 2015.. (Ministry of Justice)

(iv) Grasping of the actual state of adult entertainment businesses and the promotion of crackdowns on adult entertainment-related crimes

Considering vicious and illegal adult entertainment establishments that can become a hotbed of child sexual exploitation, efforts shall be made to grasp the actual state of illegal adult entertainment establishments through on-the-spot inspection, etc., of mainly those located in entertainment/amusement areas, and crackdowns on adult entertainment-related crimes shall be promoted. (National Police Agency)

- Efforts were made to grasp the actual state of illegal adult entertainment establishments through on-the-spot inspection, etc., of mainly those located in entertainment/amusement areas, while crackdowns on adult entertainment-related crimes were also promoted. During 2017, 4,638 persons in 4,824 cases nationwide, were arrested (*) in relation to adult entertainment-related crimes. (National Police Agency)

(v) Pursuit of criminal charges against vicious business operators

In the investigation of child pornography crimes using the internet, the police shall strengthen guidance and warnings to website operators or server administrators whose services are used to provide child pornography, and shall actively investigate related negligent business operators that engage in illegal practices such as encouraging the posting of images of child pornography on the bulletin boards that they operate, all to pursue criminal charges against them. (National Police Agency)

- In child pornography crimes using the internet, the police instructed or warned website operators whose services are used to provide child pornography, and also actively investigate related negligent business operators that engage in illegal practices such as encouraging the posting of images of child pornography to the bulletin boards that they operate, to pursue criminal charges against them. (National Police Agency)

(vi) Promotion of the activities of the Juvenile and Woman Aegis Team

As for the act of accosting or following a child or woman, which is considered as a harbinger of sexual crimes, the Juvenile and Woman Aegis Team (JWAT) established at the Metropolitan Police Department and each prefectural police headquarters has been taking measures such as arrests, guidance, and warnings to offenders identified through information-gathering and analysis. By actively promoting these pre-emptive and preventive measures, the JWAT shall make efforts to prevent sexual crimes against children and women. (National Police Agency)

- As for the act of accosting or following a child or woman, which is considered as a harbinger of sexual crimes, the JWAT established at the Metropolitan Police Department and each prefectural police headquarters took measures such as arrests, guidance, or warnings to offenders identified through information-gathering and analysis. By actively promoting these pre-emptive and preventive measures, the JWAT made efforts to prevent sexual crimes against children and women. (National Police Agency)

(vii) Strengthening of collaboration among related organizations in efforts to implement interviews with consideration of children's psychological stress

In order to reduce the burden on children for cases involving children as victims, the organizations concerned such as prosecutors, the police, and child guidance centers will establish a contact point for day-to-day and close information exchange and will promote the use of the contact point in discussing appropriate approach such as interview by one representative of the organizations concerned based on the discussion among those in charge from each organization held prior to the interview. (Ministry of Justice, National Police Agency, and Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

- In the efforts by the Ministry of Justice, National Police Agency, and Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare, the Public Prosecutor's Office, the police, and child guidance centers cooperated with each other to hold conferences before questioning child victims and actively deliberated on the representative of the relevant institutions conducting questioning. Factors taken into the decision making process were; the place, number of times, methods etc. when questioning child victims. (Ministry of Justice, National Police Agency, Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

(viii) Protection of child victims of crimes in the process of investigations/public trials

Efforts shall be made to make widely known the system that requires that the residence or other information of the witness not be known to persons concerned during the discovery of evidence proceedings and the system that requires that, regarding child victims of certain crimes, the name, address, or other information that could lead to the identification of the victim not be disclosed at the public trial, along with enhancing awareness of public prosecutors regarding these systems. Also, measures to protect crime victims in court, such as permission for the witness to be accompanied by someone of trust, the screening of the witness, use of video links, etc., shall be widely known and operated more properly. (Ministry of Justice)

- The Ministry of Justice and the Public Prosecutor's Office are undertaking efforts to make the system for non-public disclosure work more effectively. The idea being, by the ruling of court, the names, addresses or other information of victims that would permit their identification is kept private. Additionally, the system introduced by the 2016 revised Code of Criminal Procedure that allows prosecutors when disclosing evidence to require defense lawyers not to reveal the name and other information of the victim to the accused.

Furthermore, during training for prosecutors, lectures have been added regarding the protection of private information of crime victims and the protection and support of crime victims.

During 2017, including cases where children served as witnesses, measures were taken to protect victims during witness testimony include a total of 78 witnesses who were accompanied during their testimony, 1,105 witnesses who were shielded from view during their testimony, and 225 witnesses who testified via video.*

*The above numbers until 2016 were calculated based on the day of the court's ruling, but from 2017 calculated based on the day a trial concluded (Trials which the court made a ruling before the end of 2016, but concluded in 2017 were considered based on the day of the court's ruling). Due to the change in calculation method, the numbers for 2017 have temporarily decreased. (Ministry of Justice)

At penal institutions, inmates that have cognitive distortion or lack of self-control that may result in forcible indecency, rape, or a similar crime, or a crime involving harming the life or body of another person for the purpose of satisfying their own sexual urges, shall be provided with guidance on prevention of repeat sexual offenses, consisting of group work based on the method of cognitive behavioral therapy, etc. In order to ensure the effective implementation of such guidance, the system for providing guidance and the method of selecting the inmates to receive guidance shall be improved based on the verification of the effects of past treatment. (Ministry of Justice)

- 19 penal institutions implemented guidance for the prevention of sexual crime relapses. In addition, In order to contribute to the efficacy of such guidance, a risk assessment tool to gauge the extent of a participant’s risk of relapse and how problematic a relapse would be was revised and the selection methods for participants expanded. (Ministry of Justice)

(x) Implementation of guidance to prevent sexual delinquency at juvenile training schools

Among the juveniles that have been committed to a juvenile training school due to a delinquent act that constitutes sexual delinquency (e.g. gang rape, rape at the scene of a robbery, rape, forcible indecency, public indecency, kidnapping for the purpose of indecency, etc.) or that does not constitute the same but that has been triggered by a sexual motive (e.g. sexually motivated theft or injury, or a violation of the nuisance prevention ordinance, i.e., groping or camera voyeurism), those that have cognitive distortion or lack of self-control that may result in sexual delinquency shall be provided at each juvenile training school with comprehensive guidance to prevent sexual delinquency, which consists of group work or individual guidance using a workbook at the core, combined with guidance on personal relationships, guidance on understanding the victim’s feelings, and sexual education, for the purpose of helping them acquire correct knowledge about sex, enhance their recognition of their own delinquency, and learn how to live an adaptive life without taking to sexual delinquency.

Also, as those inmates that require concentrated and intensive guidance shall be transferred to intensive guidance facilities, efforts shall be made to properly conduct a verification of the effects of such guidance and to improve the program based on the PDCA cycle. (Ministry of Justice)

- At juvenile training schools, sexual delinquency prevention guidance, one of the forms of designated life guidance defined in the Juvenile correctional education, was implemented for inmates for whom cognitive deficiencies or insufficient self-control, which constitute a factor in sexual delinquency, was determined among those who were detained for sexual delinquency or were detained for delinquency committed out of sexual motives.

This type of guidance was implemented in all juvenile training schools for boys and inmates persons who necessitate an especially focused and concentrated form of guidance were designated as “focused guidance subjects”. They were transferred to the specific facilities (2 nationwide) to take guidance there. In addition, during fiscal 2017 new materials were prepared for inmates with intellectual disabilities in order to expand guidance in accordance with the characteristics of these inmates. Although evaluation of the program had previously been conducted primarily concerned with focused guidance subjects, the target of evaluation was expanded by also including general one. (Ministry of Justice)

(xi) Implementation of a sexual offender treatment program at probation offices

At probation offices, parolees or persons under probation, with the suspension of the execution of their sentence, that have been sentenced for:

- a crime of forcible indecency, rape, quasi-forcible indecency, quasi-rape, gang rape, etc., (including attempts at such), or
- any crime caused or motivated by sexual desire shall be provided with a sexual offender treatment program aimed at helping them learn not to repeat offending such sexual crimes and to improve their criminal inclinations. The implementation status shall be verified, and effective ways of implementation shall be considered. (Ministry of Justice)

- At probation offices, a sexual offender treatment program was implemented to reduce re-offenses, and to improve cognitive distortion, insufficient self-control, and other factors that may be connected to sexual offenses, and to teach them concrete methods to prevent them from committing sexual re-offenses. In 2017, 950 parolees and probationers who have committed crimes motivated by sexual desire participated compulsorily in this program.

In addition, a liaison meeting of practitioners in charge of sexual offender treatment program in correctional institutions and probation offices was held to share the state of implementation of the programs and ensure that the programs will be carried out effectively and coherently in facilities and community. (Ministry of Justice)

(xii) Operation of a system for measures to prevent repeat violent sexual crimes against children by released prisoners

The National Police Agency shall obtain information on the released prisoners that have served a sentence for a violent sexual crime such as forcible indecency against a child less than 13 years of age from the Ministry of Justice and to confirm their whereabouts. In addition, the National Police Agency shall actively conduct interviews with those released prisoners as necessary with their consent and thus strengthen measures to prevent repeat crimes. (National Police Agency)

(Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology)

(iii) Implementation of training concerning care for sexually victimized children

The Children’s Rainbow Center and other training institutes shall provide officials of Child Guidance Centers with training on how to deal with sexual abuse cases. (Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

- Repeat mention 6 - (i): Implementation into training sessions of a curriculum on how to respond to sexual abuse (Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare)

(iv) Strengthening of the support systems of the Japan Legal Support Center

In cooperation with bar associations and crime victim support groups, the Japan Legal Support Center (hereinafter referred to as the “JLSC”) shall make efforts to improve the quality of the services provided by lawyers engaged in support for crime victims, through providing training and preparing a manual. Also, for the JLSC’s staff engaged in information provision to crime victims, functioning as the JLSC’s contact point for crime victim support, the JLSC provides the training concerning measures to prevent the secondary victimization of victims and vicarious traumatization of their supporters. (Ministry of Justice)

- To improve the quality of the services provided by lawyers engaged in support for crime victims, the Japan Legal Support Center (the “JLSC”) and the bar association provided the training concerning support for crime victims. Also, for the JLSC's staff engaged in information provision to crime victims, the JLSC provided the trainings concerning measures to prevent the secondary victimization 8 times. (Ministry of Justice)

(v) Implementation of training for the promotion of information education

In order to enrich information education including information morals, the National Institute for School Teachers and Staff Development shall conduct training for teachers’ consultants and teachers that should bear a central role in the promotion of information education in each region. (Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology)

- In order to expand information technology education, including information morals, training was implemented at the National Institute for School Teachers and Staff Development for guidance counselors and teachers responsible for promoting information technology education in their area (125 participants). (Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology)

(vi) Enhancement of investigative capacity for dealing with child sexual exploitation crimes

The National Police Agency shall continue to provide training specialized in the investigation of child sexual exploitation crimes so as to properly respond to changes in the situation and enhance investigative capacity for dealing with child sexual exploitation crimes. (National Police Agency)

- 5 days of training was implemented for police leaders of prefectural police departments involved in investigations of child sexual exploitation crimes, such as child prostitution or the production of child pornography, in order to improve the specialist knowledge and skills necessary for such investigations. (National Police Agency)

(vii) Dissemination of questioning techniques with consideration of the psychological effect on child victims

Questioning techniques designed to understand victim psychologies and characteristics and to ensure admissibility of evidence and the probative value of child victim statements, while paying attention to the prevention of secondary victimization, shall be disseminated among prefectural police headquarters. (National Police Agency)
